The Best of All series

By Helena Kraljič, illustrated by Polona Lovšin, translated into English by Jason Blake.

MY BROTHER

Before us we have the words of an older sister whose little brother, at least at the start, gets a little (or a lot!) on her nerves... Of course he does: he's always walking around after her, everyone adores him, he never has to clean up after himself, he always gets the best toys... Is there anything more impossible than having a younger brother? But the sister doesn't really believe that!

I wish you bon voyage as you travel to the depths of the ocean, brave sister. Growing up with a little brother is indeed the greatest adventure in the world.

MY SISTER

Before us we have the words of a little brother whose big sister, at least at the start, gets a little (or a lot!) on his nerves... Of course she does: she always wants to be the boss, she's always making up the rules, she thinks her brother has to obey her and that she's the smartest person in the world... Is there anything more impossible than having an older sister? But the brother doesn't really believe that!

I wish you bon voyage as you travel through the galaxy, brave brother. Growing up with an older sister is indeed the greatest adventure in the world.

The Best of All series

By Helena Kraljič, illustrated by Polona Lovšin, translated into English by Jason Blake.

MY GRANDMA

Who says that important things must be explained at length? When you say I love you – are you saying three little words or writing an entire novel? My Grandma is a picture book that contains few words, yet its many messages for readers young and old are borne upon the wings of its images and sentences.

Format: 250 × 250 mm
32 pages, hardcover
Rights sold to: China (simple),
Spain, Italy, Slovakia, Turkey

MY GRANDPA

This story, which says a lot with just a few words and illustrations, begins in autumn, when the little girl is still a baby. Her grandpa may be old and sometimes a little forgetful, but that's of no matter – the most important thing is that he tells the girl how much he loves her. The girl knows that someday all that will remain of him are memories. Such bright and beautiful.

Format: 250 × 250 mm
32 pages, hardcover
Rights sold to: China (simple),
Spain, Italy, Slovakia, Turkey

BEST FRIENDS

The message of this book is very simple yet crucial in the life of every child and adult. We all need somebody to laugh with when times are good and we especially need somebody to cry with when times are bad. We all need somebody who won't judge us if we slip up, somebody who will love us no matter what. We need a best friend who will keep their fingers crossed and hope that we will succeed in life.

Apples Taste Best When You Don't Have Any

By Helena Kraljič, illustrated by Polona Lovšin, translated into English by Jason Blake.

Alex was a playful child.
He loved climbing trees.
He loved running after butterflies.
He liked kicking a ball around...
But he most definitely did not like to read!

But one day Alex changes completely. He stands in front of the blackboard at school, reading clumsily in front of his classmates. They lose respect for him, and he is so embarrassed that he decides it's time to start reading properly. Once he realizes all the wonderful things books have to offer, reading becomes a true pleasure. And the book finishes with a completely different sentence:
And he most definitely liked to read!

How the Lie Grew

By Helena Kraljič, illustrated by Suzi Bricelj, translated into English by Jason Blake.

How the Lie Grew is about a little boy who lied to his parents. He asked them for money to pay for guitar lessons, but instead used the money to buy a model car. And this first, innocent, lie grew by the day until it began to smother him. The parents are proud of their little guitarist. Grandma's proud of him and even buys him a guitar of his own. His uncle is proud of him and buys him a guitar stand. His neighbours and friends are proud of him... But the lie is revealed at his father's birthday party. Relatives, friends, and parents are left speechless. Though Ben is ashamed, at the same time he feels relieved because the heavy weight he has been carrying around on his chest has finally rolled off.

The Bunny series

By Helena Kraljič, illustrated by Cee Biscoe, translated into English by Jason Blake.

I DON'T WANT TO SEE ANYONE TODAY!

Everything was going wrong for Bobby Bunny. Right after he woke up, he broke his alarm clock, stubbed his paw, then dropped and shattered his favourite glass... He was so mad he didn't want to see anybody. But his friends didn't hold it against him, and they were delighted, later on, when Bobby brought a birthday cake to their party. Each one of us can have a day like this – we wake up on the wrong side of the bed and everything seems to go wrong.

When I'm big

By Lucia Emiliani, illustrated by Tina Dobrajc, translated into English by Jason Blake.

CHILDREN GROW UP.

Today they want to tie their own shoelaces, tomorrow they'll want to make their own lunch, and maybe the day after tomorrow they'll want to go see the world all by THEMSELVES.

But there's a long way to go until then, and sometimes being big isn't easy!

That's why it's nice to know that we'll never be too big for a hug from Mommy.

TWO FRIENDS

This story is about the workhorse Benny and the racehorse Gulliver. Benny has lots of work – in the field, in the orchard... Gulliver, meanwhile, just wants to compete with his friend, to see who hops higher, who runs faster... Benny just doesn't have the time, so Gulliver is disappointed. But when fire takes over the woods one evening, it's Gulliver who asks Benny for help. Together, they save the other animals. Gulliver realizes what true friendship is. Now he's happy to help Benny out, and now Benny is happy as can be because he has more free time to spend with his friend.

THE FOREST FAIRY TALES SERIES

By Lucia Emiliani, illustrated by Marija Smirnovaitė, translated into English by Jason Blake.

BIG GREY WOLF'S PICNIC

A picnic with a wolf is a picnic to fear. There's no doubting that – and yet... We only think badly of wolves if we've never gotten to know one. That's why we should never say: A wolf is a wolf! And neither should we say: My neighbour's a pig... Foxes are nothing but sneaky thieves... And so on. But often children are quicker to realize that things aren't always what a superficial glance makes them out to be. That's why it's no wonder that the most important words in this story are spoken by... not pigs, but wolves: Wolf Willie, Wolf Winston, and She-Wolf Wanda. Who can tell whether they'll be able to help out Daddy Wolf with his big problem? Big, Grey Wolf is in desperate need of a friend.

THE LOST EGG

Olivia the Otter and Wilma the Wild Boar have found an egg. They want to take it back to its mommy. They seek and seek, and ask and ask plenty of animals in the forest, but none of them is missing an egg. But listen! What's that noise? They look into their basket and see a tiny owl... and happily take it back to its mother.

BEST FRIENDS

Who are the best of friends? A cat and a mouse? A wild boar and an otter? You and your best friend? And what is it that best friends do together? Of course, they love to play together – in the yard, in the mud, with blocks, with toy cars or with words. But look! Today something has happened to the best of friends... Something's wrong... It's all the rain's fault: Olivia Otter no longer wants to play in the mud, and Wild Boar Wilma no longer wants to splash about in the water. The previously joyful faces turn sour, their eyes turn dark, and gone is the joy. And get this! Wilma and Olivia no longer even like the gifts they've received from each other. Can you imagine? What if we all, like true friends, walked together under a big and beautiful umbrella? We wish all readers, young and old alike, an enjoyable time reading this wonderful picture book.

THE SUN NEEDS HELP!

One day Olivia the Otter goes swimming, far away from where she lives. In the lake. There she sees the Sun and is convinced it has fallen into the water. She rushes to her friends to help her out. Of course, the Sun needs to be saved. The Sun gives us light, and without it we'd be living in darkness. The Sun gives us warmth. What would we do without it? Without the Sun, the plants would stop growing. When the animals get to the lake they tell Olivia that it only looks like the Sun has fallen into the water. Olivia feels as silly as can be. But the other animals convince her that she is as special as can be, since she can be relied on at any time.

KATY KITTY series

By Helena Kraljić, illustrated by Polona Kosec, translated into English by Jason Blake.

KATY KITTY AND THE MARVELLOUS PLANT

Why is it “marvellous”? Will it help us not be scaredy-cats? Will the cat never get our tongue? Will it give us all nine lives? Make us grin like Cheshire cats? This picture book will answer all of our questions if we, whether young or old, look deeply into it. For example, what are Katy Kitty and Mabel Mouse (those best of friends!) up to? They’re just as curious as we are! But the answer to this mystery is not what matters. What matters most are the questions themselves and the carefulness with which we regard the words and the figures – that is, what constitutes a true, lively picture book. This book will write itself into the imagination of readers who delve into it and understand that it’s about curiosity, that most marvellous “plant” of all. Only curiosity can help us keep boring, grey and desolate days away.

Format: 210 × 280 mm
32 pages, hardcover
Rights sold to: Turkey

KATY KITTY AND THE BIRTHDAY

This isn't just any old picture book! Take a look at how many questions, how many puzzles it contains! So many gazes, so many emotions and messages... Yet everything is woven into a wonderful tale about true and lasting friendship, although it sometimes seems like everyone else is more interesting than the good, old friend who's always there when you most need him.

Format: 210 × 280 mm
32 pages, hardcover
Rights sold to: Turkey

KATY KITTY AND THE MABEL MOUSE

And why, when the kitty asks about the little grey mouse, are the other animals amazed, angry – or simply silent? And how is it that, in the end, they do tell her where the mouse is? All of these questions are answered in this tale about friendship that also tells all of us that sometimes words that seem dangerous or unkind are by no means menacing words ... Maybe we just didn't understand them.

Format: 210 × 280 mm
32 pages, hardcover
Rights sold to: Turkey

KATY KITTY AND THE HOLIDAY PRESENT

This picture book begins with Katy Kitty and Mabel Mouse sitting by the windowsill and counting snowflakes. Nothing special about that, you might think. Maybe you're right. We count sheep when we can't sleep, we count our steps if we're in a hurry to get to the library, and we count clouds if we're afraid a thunderstorm's on the way... But counting snowflakes the way Katy and Mabel do is something completely different – if there are two counting, then you're together with a friend. With two, nothing's ever dull. With two, you can guess how big that snowflake is, or how many crumbs there are under the table – just think! Maybe there are a thousand! With two, you can make a snowman and boisterously bounce around in the snow. Even cold is easier to take if there are two of you.

SNOWFLAKES

By Helena Kraljič, illustrated by Maja Lubi, translated into English by Jason Blake.

Eva is a bright little girl: she observes her classmates and notices that one of them is great at drawing, another at singing, a third can run really fast, a fourth can do math with lightning speed. A fifth is as brave a fairy-tale hero, a sixth seems to know just everything... and then along comes number seven... These types of (big and small!) children are truly special, because their great hearts are full of friendship, generosity and compassion. Eva, the hero of Snowflakes, belongs to this group.

Format: 260 × 280 mm
32 pages, hardcover

NO TIME!

By Helena Kraljič, illustrated by Maja Lubi, translated into English by Jason Blake.

Can we go for a walk? Can you read me a bedtime story? Can you help me...? No time! Recognize the answer? Tim the Bear would like to tell his friends that they won't be seeing each other for a while – but his friends, who are too tied up in their everyday tasks, don't have a minute, a second, a hundredth of a second for him. But the virtuous bear just wants to say goodbye... When he returns, he doesn't take revenge on the friends who had not even a moment for him – he invites them over to talk, so there won't be any misunderstanding, if they had taken a few moments for a friend... "We should talk more so that nobody would ever be mad at anybody." Doesn't this thought, which is written at the end of the story, apply to all of us?

Format: 240 × 310 mm
32 pages, hardcover
Rights sold to: Spain, Italy, China (simple, traditional), Romania, Turkey

Timmy the Bunny and the Magic Recipe

By Ana Žontar Kristanc and Kristijan Žontar, illustrated by Maja Lubi, translated into English by Jason Blake.

The story Timmy the Bunny is about a master chef who decides one morning to follow his dreams and set out for the tallest mountain in the land in search of a magic recipe. On the way he is helped by his animal friends and by the recipes he cooks up from the ingredients in his bundle: his "Speedy Paws" banana smoothies will provide him with energy, his "Sharp-Eye" carrot soup will help him see better in the dark, his "Bright-Light" blueberry muffins will help him solve a riddle, and his "Mighty Muscles" spinach bread will give him the strength to climb to the top of the tallest mountain in the land to seek out the eagle who will hand over the magic recipe for "Yummy, Yummy Chocolate Cake" – which he will bake and share with all his friends back in the woods.

John Is Different

A Story of a Boy with Autism

By Helena Kraljič, illustrated by Maja Lubi, translated into English by Jason Blake, recommended by Marta Macedoni Lukšič, Ph.D., Institute of Autism.

This picture book clearly shows that John is not different because he chooses or wishes to be, but because he doesn't know differently. He retreats into his own world because it is the only one where he feels comfortable and safe. In that world there are no 'words' he does not understand, no stimuli which are hurtful for him, and no changes that are difficult to adapt to. John Is Different will help children and parents look at the peculiarities of children with autism in a different light.

Format: 220 × 320 mm
32 pages, hardcover
Rights sold to: Arabian language, China (traditional, simple), Malaysia, Poland, Spain, Turkey

Elvis and Tara Have to Go

By Helena Kraljič, illustrated by Maja Lubi, translated into English by Jason Blake, recommended by Uroš Krivec, MD, Ph.D., Paediatrician and paediatric pulmonologist.

Asthma is the most common chronic disease among children. It is estimated that approximately fourteen per cent of schoolchildren have asthma. This book directs our eyes to a child's awareness and his parents' care for him. In a picturesque manner, and with an eye to the future, this story aids us in making tough choices. This story is about a regular little boy who loves his dog Tara and his cat Elvis. When he finds out that he has asthma and that both Tara and Elvis have to go, he is sad. But it's a good thing he has friends he can depend on!

Format: 220 × 320 mm

True Friend

By Sanja Pregl, illustrated by Maja Lubi, translated into English by Jason Blake.

There is a worldwide spread of peer violence.

Any behaviour which causes physical or psychological harm to anyone is in no way acceptable. Violence is usually concealed, it happens when there are no adults present. It is most common at school, or on the way to and from school. It is important to raise the awareness of peer violence, students and teachers alike must be sensitive to it. A swift response to peer violence is also important.

A DONKEY ONLY GOES ONTO THE ICE ONCE

By Helena Kraljič, illustrated by Adriano Janežič, translated into English by David Limon, Ph.D., translated into German by Christiane Leskovec Redek, Ph.D.

This is a story that has won the hearts of the young and the old. The plot is based on a very simple idea: a donkey that overhears a child mention a saying about him wants to find out what that saying really means. As in every true folk tale, the donkey sets out on a journey, meeting speaking animals on the way (a snake, a cat, a wolf, a hen, a dog, a sparrow, a horse). He asks every single one of these animals what the saying about him means. As expected (psychologically well-conceived and argued), every animal the donkey meets on his journey only knows a saying or two about itself, but does not care for other animals. At the end, when the donkey still has not gotten an acceptable answer from the other animals, he decides to try out the true meaning of the saying himself.

Jerry the Giant

By Helena Kraljič, illustrated by Adriano Janežič, translated into English by Jason Blake.

The New Year was approaching. Jerry the Giant was baking cookies and decorating the Christmas tree. But there was something missing. Someone to usher in the New Year with him. The giant decided to find out if there was anyone else like him in the world. He set off for foreign lands. He asked a bee, a bird, children, a whale, a bunny, even a dinosaur if they had perhaps met someone similar to him. None of them had ever seen a giant, but they all promised to ask their friends. Jerry the Giant was sad and, resigning himself to the fact that he would always be alone, he returned home. But look! At home he found six giants who were as lonely as he was. They had heard that there was somebody like them in the world and decided to pay him a visit. The giant was overjoyed! He even fell in love, and lived happily ever after and had many, many children.

TROUBLE WITH MONSTERSAURS

By Helena Kraljič, illustrated by Adriano Janežič, translated into English by David Limon, Ph.D., translated into German by Christiane Leskovec Redek, Ph.D.

It seems there are not enough stories about dinosaurs. The children keep reaching for them and demanding them over and over again. The story introduces carnivorous and herbivorous dinosaurs. The carnivores unite and decide to take over the world, making the herbivores almost too afraid to breathe. In their terrible fear of the carnivores, the herbivores think of a trick. They decide to throw a bone to the carnivores. There is an inscription on the bone, saying that only the scariest of the carnivores can have it. This makes them quarrel terribly, because every dinosaur thinks the bone belongs to him. The herbivores' trick has worked, and the dinosaurs are happy that common sense won this time.

Greta the Goat

By Helena Kraljič, illustrated by Adriano Janežič, translated into English by David Limon, Ph.D.

This is a story about a lost goat that has no one to bleat or graze with. One night, she is sure she hears voices and bleats back. She is convinced she has found her friend. She even asks the rabbit to help her find this friend. Then she asks the chamois and the ibex to help her. Their screaming attracts the attention of the eagle, who flies over the mountains. The eagle calls to Greta's friend in a hoarse voice. It finally dawns on Greta, the rabbit, the ibex, and the chamois that the hoarse echoing voice is coming from the eagle. Greta is very sad because she has not found her friend. The rabbit, the chamois, and the ibex give her a big hug and reassure her that she can always count on them.

THE MARY AT GRANDMA'S series

By Andrej Predin, illustrated by Marjan Manček, translated into English by Jason Blake.

THE MAGIC HAT

Mary loves to visit Grandma and her little house with the yellow roof, even if there's no television there. At Grandma's it's so different from at home. She can doll herself up in front of the bathroom sink until she's scared of her own reflection in the mirror. If she doesn't like lunch, she can just push it away and munch on chocolate. Each weekend an exciting adventure awaits her there, and, best of all, her friend Louis lives in a house right by Grandma's.

Format: 200 × 200 mm
36 pages, hardcover
Rights sold to: Turkey

PIRATES FROM MERIKAKA LAND

Mary spends every weekend at her grandma's, awaiting new adventures with her friend Louis. In the second story of this series, a storm carries away the house with the yellow roof tiles to the distant land of Merikaka, which is haunted by ruthless pirates under the command of Captain Cash. Mary and Louis, with the help of a crocodile, are trying to find their way home.

OUT-OF-CONTROL PRINCESSES

Like she does every weekend, Mary is visiting Grandma in Jolly Street, which is also where her friend Louis lives. In the third story of this series the two friends meet some very bored princesses who are using their magic powers to wreak havoc. They want to prove to the world that they're sick of waiting around for princes to come. Also this time Mary and Louis solve the problem and, before Grandma wakes up from her nap, we can see that everything is put back to normal.

KIDNAPPED SANTA CLAUS

Long winter evenings are when Jolly Street is at its most beautiful. The bright lights shining from all of the homes and the trees flicker, filling the air with the spirit of Christmas, brightening the happy faces of the snowmen. At Christmas, Mary especially loves to visit her grandmother, even though she lives in an old house and even though her tap doesn't always provide warm water. This adventure starts with a horrendous event, namely by Captain Cash abducting Santa Claus and taking him to a hidden land. Will Mary and her friend Louis succeed in rescuing the Christmas Holidays?

The Mouse in Search of Cheese

Mojca Košmrlj, illustrated by Daša Simčič, translated into English by Jason Blake.

Mouse's tummy is rumbling, so she heads out in search of something to munch on. She finds something yellow sticking out of the ground. Cheese?! No. With her friend Bunny's help, she yanks out a piece of plastic! The two travel onward and find something else that's yellow. Cheese?! No. It's just a piece of yellow paper. Owl hears the hungry mouse's howls and comes to help her out. Soon they find yet another something that's yellow. Cheese?! No. It's just a yellow bottle.

Nothing but waste. But what to do with it? It's a good thing they come across Bear, who leads to an eco-island. There Mouse also sees a great big compost bin. She looks in and just for joy. Inside the bin there's lettuce, carrots, ... and cheese! Finally she can eat until her tummy stops rumbling.

The One about the Sun that Couldn't Sleep

By Helena Kraljič, illustrated by Daša Simčič, translated into English by Jason Blake.

This story takes us to the sky. The sun is just setting in the west. He meets a little cloud, who kindly invites him to his birthday party. The sun is so impatient he can not fall asleep from all the excitement and expectations. This causes complete chaos – the people are angry, and the children don't want to go to bed. The first one to talk to the sun is a star. The star teaches him to count sheep. But the sun still cannot fall asleep. Then, the moon comes puffing by. When she sees it is not the sun's fault that sleep will not come, she offers to make him cocoa. Sadly, even cocoa cannot help the sun to fall asleep. Finally, the wind comes whistling by ... and it has the perfect cure. The wind reads him a story The One about the sun that couldn't sleep.

The Opera series

This story is from what is probably Verdi's most famous opera: Aida, about an Ethiopian princess who was kidnapped and made into a slave by the Egyptians. The story takes us to the time of the pharaohs, a time of war and eternal love, a time of great stories and a rich civilization. Though we live in very different times today, stories like Aida will always inspire our imagination.

Doctor Bear wakes up from his winter's sleep. Happily, he peeks out of his hole and is surprised to see a queue of complaining animals. The squirrel is here to see him because she fell out of her drey when men were cutting down trees, and hurt her leg. The fox stepped on a can and cut herself. The otter almost choked on a plastic bag that was swimming in the water. The wild boar was grazed by a bullet, the wolf barely escaped a fire, and the stork was poisoned from eating a poisoned grain. The only time Doctor Bear can take a break is in the evening, but his son tugs at his hand and asks the bear to show him around the forest. While taking a stroll through the woods, they cross paths with a man pointing at them with a shotgun, and the bear swings at him with his paw. The headline in the paper the next day is: Rampant bear attacks a man!

The Beany is a can that is flung into the courtyard of a rabbit celebrating his birthday. He is expecting guests, and becomes terribly angry the moment he sees her. He decides to take her into the forest. The celebration is at its height, and the only one missing is the girl rabbit. She is late, because she notices a can on the ground on her way to the rabbit's. She takes it home, and soon arrives at the celebration and excitedly presents the rabbit with his gift. The rabbit opens it and cannot believe his eyes. There is that bean can again, but this time, there are flowers planted in her. 'Do you like it?' The girl rabbit asks the rabbit sweetly. The rabbit responds: 'Very much, I will put it someplace special.'

This is a story about love that focuses on a girl with an open and tender heart. The well-known author has written it for all those parents who have been through a divorce and wish to understand their children better. The story revolves around a little girl whose parents are divorced. She likes everyone, even her father's new girlfriend and her mother's new boyfriend. Her family does not understand her, but what they do not know is that her heart is big enough for everyone! This makes it so much easier for her.

This story is about a time long, long ago, when two moons were still alive. When one of them was shining, the other would rest, and when one of them was resting, the other would shine with all her strength. Lara Moon had begun to ponder the importance of the individual and of uniqueness, and therefore wanted to outshine her friend. She shone all day and no longer rested. But, alas, we all need a holiday, and that's why Lara Moon got sick and finally extinguished. Since then there has only been one moon in the universe. But because she remembered what happened to her friend, she sometimes displayed herself with all her might, and then turned herself off and got ready for a rest, when she would not shine. People call that a full moon. This picture book with very little text contains marvellous illustrations. The story cautions children to rest up and collect their strength for the next day, while presenting the phases of the moon.

On a small farm there was great excitement. All the animals were waiting for the new horse to arrive. They thought it would be snow-white, slim and tall... but when Katya the Cow said it had a long white mane and in the middle of it... they impatiently began to wait for when they'd get to meet a unicorn. The next morning they gathered at the door to the stables. When the chubby brown horse Johnny heard how the other animals had imagined him to be, he pretended he was ill. He didn't want to disappoint them. Life continued on its path. Johnny the Horse didn't want to come out of the stables. The animals thought the unicorn was too conceited to want to meet them. One morning the farmer went into the woods and a tree fell on him. The animals ran over to him, but they couldn't help him. Johnny the Horse rushed to his aid and saved the farmer. That was when the animals got to know their imagined unicorn. Although he wasn't slim and white, and although he didn't have a horn or magical powers, they all agreed that he was special. Johnny was happy, and Katya the Cow could even finish her sentence the way she had wanted to a few days earlier: "He has a long white mane and in the middle of it there's a dark streak of hair."
